

Learning Styles Paper

I think learning styles affect how we learn. I think learning new things is different based on the individual. For example, my younger brother and I have different learning styles even though we both will procrastinate till the last minute on some things. I feel like my learning style is more of a blend of all of the styles mentioned in the article we were supposed to read regarding learning styles. However, when I took the little quiz thing linked in the creative coding website, turns out I'm more of an Auditory/Visual learner. (Results are posted below.)
